Øyvind Aassve

Executive Order 13335

President George W. Bush signs EO 13335 and creates the position of the Office of the National Information Technology Coordinator on April 24th, 2004.

JASON Report

The JASON report on healthcare interoperability, formally titled "A Robust Health Data Infrastructure," was published in 2014. The report was prepared by the JASON group, an independent advisory panel of scientists. It critically assessed the state of electronic health record (EHR) interoperability.

21st Century Cures Act

President Barack Obama signs the 21st Century Cures Act into law. The act expands Access to APIs. The provisions impact as prompt and intent to heal the user.

HITECH Act

President Barack Obama signs the HITECH Act and the ASTOP/ONC is formally established in statute, legally codified as a permanent entity within the HHS (U.S. Department of Health and Human Services). The HITECH Act subsidizes EHRs through several key mechanisms.

2015 Edition Rule

ASTP/ONC publishes the final rule for the 2015 Edition Health IT Certification Criteria, which includes updates standards to enhance interoperability, functionality and utility of health IT.

HIPAA Privacy Rule

While the original HIPAA legislation in 1996 laid the groundwork for protecting health information privacy and security, the specific details and regulations concerning the right of access were elaborated upon in the HIPAA Privacy Rule.

HITECH Act

The HITECH Act played a critical role in subsidizing the adoption of electronic health records (EHRs) by providing significant financial incentives and support to healthcare providers.

FHIR DSTU 1

FHIR DSTU (Draft Standard for Trial Use) is introduced by HL7, aiming to simplify healthcare data exchange using modern web technologies and standards.

2015 Edition Rule

The ASTP/ONC 2015 Edition Health IT Certification Criteria requires that certified health IT be capable of exporting the CCD (Clinical Document Architecture) standard. The 2015 Edition Health IT Certification Criteria is a gap between the 2015 Edition Health IT Certification Criteria and the HIPAA right of access that states...
